About this course:

A one-day immersion for the restorative dentist in point-of-care 3D printing. Morning lecture (3.5 hrs): the published evidence on printed appliance accuracy and materials, resin science and post-processing discipline, indications and case selection, and per-appliance economics run against your own lab spend.
Afternoon hands-on: participants take a case from scan through design, printing, post-processing, and fit-check — and leave with a 90-day adoption roadmap.
